(By United Press) VALLEY FALLS, N. Y., March 16 .- Four men were killed and three mills were destroyed by an explosion at the plant of the Hercules Powder company today. A spark from a carpenter's hammer was believed to have ignited the powder.

Joseph Mitchell, millwright, and John Hayner, carpenter, were killed by the explosion in the glazing mill.

Outside the mill was a truck loaded with powder, which was set off by the concussion. The force of the second explosion was responsible, it is believed, for setting off explosions in two other mills nearby.

Victor Sheely and Harry White, who were in the other mills, were the two other victims. Several men were slightly injured by falling debris.

Baxter's invention, a permanent automobile license plate, was submitted at the annual meeting here, has ordered delivery of a iffs and district attorneys held been taken on the matter.

The plate, according to Baxter, is the same size as the ordinary license plate except that it is of heavier metal and has an opening at the right. This opening is grooved to receive a small plate which is stamped the numerals of the current year.

Only the color and numerals of the insertion plate would be changed yearly.

Motorists would be required to register their plate every five years under Baxter's proposal. The inventor claims that his invention would save the state of Oregon $750,000 over a five year period as it would do away with the present system of recording and other clerical operations which cost the state huge sums annually.

However, the desire to take pictures of the terrible scenes of the war was too strong in many cases for the soldiers. By the use of great caution and ingenuity-and of the smallest possible cameras -officers and men succeeded in taking photographs that are now valued treasures. War time prohibitions are an old story now and these casual secret photo graphs are coming to light.

Within the last few weeks hundreds of pictures taken by former soldiers and sailors have been brought or sent by their owners to the officials of the collection of war photography in the Imperial War museum in South Kensington. The authorities are anxious to encourage these contributions. There is, of course, nothing to fear at this time, and these private photographs are sometimes of the greatest interest as supplementing the official records. Baker State Park near Patterson. In both these great recreational centers of the future, good fishing is to be found and both are easy of access. It is three miles from Patterson, the birth-place of Governor Baker, whose earnest cooperation with the state park program of the game and fish commissioner, is largely responsible for the increase in recreational facilities provided at Missouri state parks in the interests of all citizens alike, keeping pace with like programs even in states which have had park systems for many years.

Largest Spring in Missouri Truly One of the World Wonders.

There is another sort of attraction in Big Spring State Park, five miles from Van Buren, where the largest spring in Missouri, shoots forth from the base of a lofty limestone cliff an average of more than 300,-000,000 gallons of water every day. It is truly one of the wonders of the world. Extensive camp grounds, a bathhouse and other conveniences have been provided, and good fishing is plentiful in Current river. The state has established a refuge here for deer and wild turkey.

Fisherman's Favorite. Thousands visit the state park at Bennett's Spring annually; it has been a favorite point for fishermen for many years. The spring after which the park is named comes from a huge fissure in limestone below a gravel bar and pours forth at the rate of 71,000,000 gallons a day. It flows for a mle and a quarter to the Niangua river, favorably known to fishermen as a bass-fishing stream. This park, where a state fish hatchery also is maintained, is twelve miles from Lebanon. The village of Brice is on park property and supplies may be obtained at the store. Splendid camping and picnicking grounds nestle along the banks of the spring branch, where trout fishing is permitted excepting in December, January, February and March. These months cover the spawning period of trout. Natural Beauty and Vast Possibilities The trail down Mudlick Canyon and around under the precipitous face of Mudlick Mountain over-hanging Big Creek, in Sam A. Baker State Park, attracts the venturesome by the sheer nakedness of the cliffs around which one can, if sure-footed, find his way. Steep and almost vertical slopes, in some places perpendicular, at whose base the water rests or surges according to its mood, make exploration of the mountain sides an experience full of thrills.

Natural Beauty. Too much cannot be said of the natural beauty and consequently the vast possibilities of this park. It is a tract of approximately 6,000 acres, which includes some of the highest summits to be found in the Ozarks. Its long, even-topped ranges are sugsummits spoken of are an impressive waited their turn on the old trail for natural game preserve. What Good Are B-Batteries?

-BATTERIES are good for nothing! One of the most natural questions asked by those who have been instructed to discard B-batteries whose voltage has fallen below a prescribed minimum is, "Cannot I find some use for this battery to which its present voltage will be suited?" in other words, it is only natural to wonder if you cannot find some use for a battery which when new had 45 volts and which still has, say, 35 perfectly good volts left.

Bottles having once contained certain liquid refreshments often retain the smell but they lack the old potence. This is the case with old B-batteries. They have left some electric pressure or voltage but there is no appreciable quantity of electricity left. Voltage is simply an electric pressure that causes electricity to flow. Electricity in motion is an electric current and the product of voltage times current times time is electric energy. Thus to get energy out of a battery, you must draw an electric current at some voltage for a definite interval of time. Without any one of these factors, voltage, current and time, you cannot obtain energy.

The mighty Chicago Cubs were gone today, gone to annoy other pitchers and club down other fences, but the memory of their visit to the Orange County Fair grounds yesterday will live long with the 3500 and more who saw the ponderous "Hack" Wilson crash a home run over the center field wall with two on in the tenth to give the National league pennant contenders a thrilling extra-inning decision, 6 to 3, over a pack of fighting Portland Beavers.

It was anybody's ball game until the dangerous Mr. Wilson smote his puissant punch into the regions ordinarily inhabited only by pigs and hogs and the such along about county-fair-time. Getting highly satisfactory pitching from Bert Cole, Johnny Couch and Fred Ortman and flashing a pair of twinkillings on two occasions that these slingers were in danger, the Beavers tore into the Cubs with everything they had, bringing the big crowd to its feet like it was football season when they tied the score at three-all with a savage rally in the last of the ninth.

Larry French a youthful lefthander, succeeded Ortman in the tenth, Ortman having been lifted for a pinchhitter, and French into trouble when his control failed him. English started the fireworks with a single that took

Bush worked five speedy frames and his only difficulties developed when he threw in his "home run ball."

Ike Davis drove a long one over the barrier in deep left field and that ball was well-kissed. It gave Portland the jump, too, as Davis clicked it in the very first inning. Dave Barbee, an outfielder with legs like a football player, also hammered one for the circuit in the third, his being a lengthy swat over the left field wall.

Thus, the Beavers were in front 2 to 0 at the beginning of the disastrous sixth when for the space of several moments Pitcher John Couch lost all semblance of control and loaded the hassocks with nobody away. The run-making was not entirely Couch's fault, at that, as an unfortunate error figured in the upheaval.

Maguire started it all with a single and Cuyler and Wilson both walked. A passed ball enabled Maguire to score and Cuyler and Wilson to advance a peg from whence they both raced home when Davis threw wildly to first on Stephenson's line drive.

Portland tied it up in the last of the ninth. Mellana, sticking for Ortman, was safe on Yoter's error, went to second on Davis' sacrifice and scored on "Skeets" Bigbee's line double to center. Bigbee went to third on Smith's sacrifice fly to Cuyler and anything safe would have won the old ball game for the Coast leaguers but Sigafeos died, Weinert to Keesey. The score:

He explained, however, that he didn't want the ball club unless he had to take it.

He wanted to buy the Polo Grounds and have the baseball end of the business transacted in the Yankee stadium. It looks as if the Giants may try to share the Yankee stadium with the Yankees and permit Rickard to remodel the Polo Grounds into a big boxing, football and hockey arena.

ONE ON BRAVES' BOSS If Rickard did find himself with a bunch of ball players on his payroll he might not make such a bad magnate. Some of the other magnates are not sharks on baseball. Many of them are dependent entirely upon the judgment of field managers and business managers.

This story is told of Mr. Adams, a gentleman who is vice president and a big stockholder of the Boston Braves and the owner of the Boston hockey team. When the Braves got Rogers Hornsby from the Giants, one of the Boston newspaper men asked Adams what he thought of the trade.

"Great," Adams replied. "With that pitcher we ought to win a lot of ball games."

And he wasn't joking. The boys had to tell him that Hornsby wasn't a pitcher. This is a true

During the current period of comparative calm in American athletic circles, British sportsmen today are regarding with excitement of navigating better than 24 feet, the approach of the two outstanding events on their sports calendarthe Grand National Steeplechase and the Oxford-Cambridge boat race. These events, which British sportsmen, amateur and professional alike, consider the most important of the year, fall on successive days, March 30 and 31. The annual boat race between the eight-oared crews of England's famous universities is the classic of rowing events of the world. The approaching race will be the eightieth in which Oxford and Cambridge the high sticks and with Alex have met. The Oxonians have won 40 races, the Cantabs 38, and in 1877 there was a dead heat. Since the war, the rowing fortunes of the universities have turned and Graham are old rivals and towards the Light Blue of Cambridge and the Oxford carsmen have have met many times before. gained but one victory in eight post-war starts.

This will be the first race since cessation of martial hostilities and resumption of friendly ones that no American has taken part. The Many sportsmen will miss the Oxford-Cambridge race because the n the high hurdles. Grand National Steeplechase, the most famous of horse races, comes on March 30, the preceding day.

The Grand National is run at Aintree, an historic course near Liverpool, a long train journey from London.

For Americans, chief interest in this year's race will center upon the performance of Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce of Baltimore and sent abroad for the express purpose of winning the Grand

The test is the severest know to horse racing, for Aintree's jumps are high and wide, and of 30 or more starters each year, seldom more than half a dozen are able to complete the course. A horse which can keep its feet and guarantee to clear all the terrible jumps stands an excellent chance of winning, for speed is a secondary consideration in the Grand National.

At times, the course is sprinkled with fallen horses and riders, while other steeds, riderless, gallop over the turf and sometimes, like the good soldiers they are, even attempt to clear the jumps that lie

Billy Barton was made one of the favorites for this year's race as a result of a surprising victory in the Winchester Handicap Steeplechase a couple of months ago, but since that time, the horse has disappointed by failing to run in the money in two subsequent events.

aces we have observed during our the Yost Broadway tonight and ifetimes, no two are exactly alike. Nature, in dealing with us humans, scarcely ever repeats herself—she is never monotonous. Yet, an intensive study of facial characteristics reveals the fact that while there is unlimited variety, this variety is attained through certain basic forms and manifold combinations of these

Give the matter a moment's thought and I fancy you will agree with my placing all faces under one of three great classifications. They are either square, oval or tapering in general type. Of these general facial forms there are many modifications and combinations, and these changes and additions are the reasons for the endless variations that we have spoken of above.

After reading this article, notice the facial forms of friends and acquaintances. You will find such study of great help to you when you are choosing clothes, hats or

WASHINGTON, March 16. -Fewer "functions" and more "parties" may be expected at the White House if fortune attends the presidential candidacy of Senator James A. Reed, according to the Washington friends of Mrs. Reed.

Diplomatic teas, cabinet dinners and large receptions, they say, are not to the liking of Mrs. Reed and will be reduced to the necessary minimum, giving way to the more informal gatherings called "having a few friends in."

The wife of the senior senator from Missouri is not a familiar figure in Washington society. She has stayed away from the capital entirely this winter, remaining instead at the Reed home in Kansas

The Reeds sold their Biltmore street home here last year and moved their furniture to the Kansas City house, a massive stone structure surrounded by a wide veranda, just the kind of house Mrs. Reed had wanted-homelike and airy without architectural pre-covery of the gunpowder plot, are in the group selected. In conjunction with the gunpowder plot warning is the confession of Guy Fawkes. Of particular interest is the historic "scrap of paper" that Germany was accused of violating when she invaded Belgium. It is the parchment page with the seals of the parties to the protocol of April, 1839, maintaining the independence of Belgium, and with the signatures of their representatives.

The original draft of the log of Nelson's "Victory" describes simply the Battle of Trafalgar and Nelson's death and wound. Beneath the record is a list of the casualties, headed by the name of the commander in chief. The log states that when victory was reported to Nelson, "he then died of his wound."

This is only bright to see which of the vegetables most needed improvement and decided that strings in beans were about the most pestiferous things in the realm of etible plants. Accordingly he began developing a new variety which resulted in completely ridding that legume of the objectionable strings.

After much urging, he sold his first seed to a big grower who supplied congressmen with the seeds they sent out to constituents and with lavish generosity the solons mailed samples far and wide. With that Keeney's prize bean business blew up and he has not again been able to correct the faults of any other vegetable. The worst blow of all, said Keeney, was that the big grower named the bean after himself.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to ractice medicine, back in 1875 the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation which he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intend- 21. CHICAGO, March 16.—Heavy exports overnight and small receipts sent corn into another sensational advance on the Chicago board of trade today. Reports of exports business in oats firmed that grain and wheat followed the upturn, despite bearish news.

Final figures: Wheat % @10 higher; corn 1½02 cents higher.

The certainty that the country movement is rapidly dwindling sent cash corn 1½02 cents higher.

The certainty that the country movement is rapidly dwindling sent cash corn 1½0 cent higher.

News in wheat generally was bearish. The cash market was steady to ½ cent higher.

Seaboard dispatches spoke of export trade in oats. The tone was strong most of the day.

A Message To Small Used Car Buyers

The buyers of the smaller used cars are under the impression that a Cadillac dealer does not have the smaller used cars for sale. We would like to have you know that we get the cream of the smaller automobiles inasmuch as it is the careful type of buyer that comes in to exchange for a larger car.

ASK THE GROWER Country

If you want to know if an orange grove pays—ask the grower. If you would like to try it yourself, buy this one. It contiatns 15 acres, has 4 or 5 year old Vaiencia trees that will be bearing in another year, owns an interest in a pumping plant and is well situated between Anaheim and Garden Grove. The entire price is $22,500 or $1500 per acre and one-third cash will handle. 2626.

WHAT HAVE YOU TO TRADE? City Wt are looking for a place that we can trade city lots on to the extent of $2000 clear. Our preference is semi-business, improved with income that will pay a fair rate of interest. Will consider 7 or 8 thousand dollars.

A WHOLESOME CHANGE IS WEL-COME

The Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate has voted not to recommend the confirmation of the re-appointment of Esch to the important Inof the Interstate Commerce Commission needed new blood on it. The charge that it has been packed by those who are too eager to listen to the big interests of the country is not without a good deal of suspicion, to say the least. The Interstate Commerce Commission is one of the most important commissions that have to do with the vital interests of all the people, and it ought not to be overloaded with too many partisans of one side or another.

Perhaps if any member of that Commission might profitably be dropped, with the possible exception of the chairman, whose interests are always on the sides of the railroads, and never in the interest of the people, that member is Mr. Esch. Mr. Esch has always been a willing tool of the railroads. It was he who, when a member of the House, and as chairman of the Committee on Railroads, pushed through the bill which has given the railroads all the high privileges which they now enjoy, and which has sent them on the high road of prosperity at the expense of shippers and travelers and the people at large. Undoubtedly his appointment to the Commission was due to his subservience to the railroad

In the matter of the Lake Coal Cargo decision which militated against many of the border states and in favor of the coal operators of Pennsylvania and Southeastern Ohio, Mr. Esch had the right view of things at first, but when his masters spoke he changed his vote on the Commission. That change of mind will evidently mean Mr. Esch's political extinction; and it ought to. Without question the Senate will sustain the recommendation of

A NOVEL ACADEMIC INCIDENT

A senior in Dartmouth college was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. The Phi Beta Kappa society is a fraternity of the best scholars in our colleges and universities, and it has always been considered the highest honor to be admitted to its honorable membership, and to wear the gold key which is its badge.

The young man declined the honor on the ground that the conditions on which this high honor was conferred did not represent a just estimate of scholarship. He believed that if just methods were made the standard of measurement, many who are not honored would be admitted, and many who are honored would be left out.

It has become a matter of common report that the standards of the society have been lowered, and that many have been chosen as honorary members for no other reason than that they had some special influence. It was a brave act on the part of the young man. It will undoubtedly have its influence.

Not These Kinds of "Levies"

More Truth Than Poetry By James J. Montague

As a child I believed, that a dog, if he chose Could indulge in polite conversation And chat of the weather, his joys and his woes With eager and gay animation. And even today I am not much agog-

And freely I make the confession-Upon reading reports that a young lady dog Has mastered the art of expression

I frankly admit that a dog that can speak

Would seem just a little Satanic.

But though my surprise at these tidings is small-For I've heard crows and parrakeets cursing-I do not believe I should like after all To hear this young canine conversing Though allured by whatever is strange and unique And am proof to emotion and panic

And why should a dog, man's most intimate friend Because it is fond and adoring And never addicted to talk without end, Which in man is sufficiently boring, Drop the functions of watch dog, abandon its art As pointer, retriever or ratter

Be false to its nature and suddenly start To chatter and chatter and chatter? My puppy, when spoken to always replies His tail gives an answering flutter, I can real his affection for me in his eyes

But never a word does he utter. I like him because he is easy to teach Though his ways are a little unsteady And I hope he won't ever burst forth into speech: There are too many talkers already!

Doing business with a liar is never satisfactory. Somehow he will attempt to wriggle out of his promises. It is easy to detect the strictly honest person. When he owes you money he does not avoid you, but openly and frankly pays you something on account right along, if he cannot pay the whole

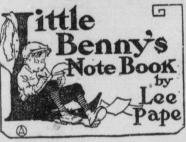

The test of the fundamentally nonest man is his punctuality in meeting his engagements or in frankly explaining to you why those engagements cannot be met.

We have not realized the profoundly different effects may have upon our civilization. From a technical point of view we are today in a twilight zone between an old machine industry and a new machine industry. The old machine industry rested on steam power. The new machine industry will rest on electric power.

And between the two there is difference as wide as the world. In a machine industry resting on

In a machine nidustry resting on electric power, the power can be taken to the worker. A machine industry resting on steam power must centralize.

A machine industry resting electric power may decentralize. Most of the human disadvantages the muckrakers have rightly hurled giant power can bring to our civiltheir criticisms, have been the in-

We have tried, through the years, until recently it has been technically imperative for industry to centralize, and industrial centralization has created these human disadvantages faster than political or social reform could correct them. Consequently many honest social reformers have thrown up their hands in despair of ever correcting the evils of industrial centralization save through a radical revolt against machine industry itself. But if the technical developments respecting the generation, sale, and transmission of electric power make possible the decentralization of insteam power, the worker must go dustry, the human disadvantages of machine industry may largely disappear.

But, as I said the other day to a body of men concerned with problems of electric power, if the power resources of the nation, during the next twenty-five years, become pawns in a game of financial maof machine industry, against which not most of rich social benefits that ization.
